

Providing new opportunities for local businesses

We're sourcing licensed local suppliers to support our manufacturing facility in Wallula, Washington

At ROCKWOOL, we focus on building long-term relationships with our suppliers in our North American markets through mutual trust and partnership. We're now looking to do the same here in Washington with our 125-employee facility in Wallula.

When you think about building material manufacturing, you might picture line operators, warehouse workers, and industrial engineers, but there's so much more. Those workers are one very important part of the equation, but it takes a team of employees alongside a reliable and high-quality supplier network to ensure the operations of our manufacturing facilities.

Service area opportunities working with ROCKWOOL

The categories listed below provide an overview of where we will be hiring either full-time or seasonal vendors depending on the service, to support day-to-day factory operations.

- Catering & food services
- Cleaning services
- Contract warehousing
- Engineering services
- Environmental testing services
- Fabrication and machining
- Maintenance and trades services
- Pest control
- Property maintenance (i.e. landscaping and snow removal)
- Safety supplies and equipment
- Security services
- Third-party logistics (3PL)
- Waste removal

"When ROCKWOOL first built in Mississippi, we were a new restaurant and they let us go in there and do a catering job with them that really helped us out tremendously starting out."

– Tyler Clancy, Owner/Chef, Clancy's Café, Mississippi

At ROCKWOOL, we're dedicated to building relationships and sourcing products and services from businesses across the region.

Find out more and apply to work with us today by visiting the Wallula vendor and supplier application.